

When reporting datasets based on marine sediments archives (foraminiferal boron isotope), for new datasets, should the sample size (ng of boron analyzed) be considered essential, recommended or desired?

