

When reporting datasets based on lake sediments archives (particle size), for legacy datasets, should the analytical method (e.g. laser diffraction) be considered essential, recommended or desired?

