

When reporting datasets based on historical documents archives, for new datasets, should the reference to quote source be considered essential, recommended or desired?

