

When reporting datasets based on trees archives (stable isotope), for new datasets, should the samples were pooled or are samples single ring/single tree measurements be considered essential, recommended or desired?

