

When reporting datasets based on chronologies (U series), for new datasets, should the state whether uncertainty on decay constant are included in final estimates be considered essential, recommended or desired?

