

When reporting datasets based on marine sediments archives (foraminiferal geochemistry), for new datasets, should the taxonomy being followed be considered essential, recommended or desired?

