

When reporting datasets based on trees archives (stable isotope), for new datasets, should the isotope measured be considered essential, recommended or desired?

