

When reporting datasets based on ice core archives, for legacy datasets, should the depth of any melt layer be considered essential, recommended or desired?

