

When reporting datasets based on ice core archives, for new datasets, should the continuous vs discrete sampling be considered essential, recommended or desired?

