

When reporting datasets based on speleothem archives (modern cave conditions), for new datasets, should the in-cave drip chemistry be considered essential, recommended or desired?

