

When reporting datasets based on lake sediments archives (density), for new datasets, should the method (e.g. direct sampling) be considered essential, recommended or desired?

