

When reporting datasets based on marine sediments archives (general), for new datasets, should the volume of sediment analyzed be considered essential, recommended or desired?

