

When reporting datasets based on ice core archives, for new datasets, should the depth of firn/ice transition be considered essential, recommended or desired?

