

When reporting datasets based on lake sediments archives (magnetic data), for legacy datasets, should the ancillary data about the archive (carbonate and organic content) be considered essential, recommended or desired?

