

When reporting datasets based on ice core archives, for legacy datasets, should the if available, any snowpit information from the same location be considered essential, recommended or desired?

