

When reporting datasets based on marine sediments archives (alkenones), for new datasets, should the C37-C39 compound concentration be considered essential, recommended or desired?

