

When reporting datasets based on cross archives, for legacy compilations, should the model used to compile data be considered essential, recommended or desired?

