

When reporting datasets based on marine sediments archives (alkenones), for new datasets, should the index value be considered essential, recommended or desired?

