

When reporting datasets based on ice core archives, for new datasets, should the presence of elongated bubbles be considered essential, recommended or desired?

