When reporting datasets based on ice core archives, for legacy datasets, should the continous vs discrete sampling be considered essential, recommended or desired?