When reporting datasets based on historical documents archives, for legacy datasets, should the pages from which the quote is extracted from be considered essential, recommended or desired?