When reporting datasets based on trees archives, for new datasets, should the knots be considered essential, recommended or desired?