When reporting datasets based on uncertainties (measured variable), for legacy datasets, should the analytical uncertainty be considered essential, recommended or desired?